The Arizona Game and Fish Department, in partnership with the Arizona Council for the Social Studies, is pleased to offer an engaging and timely workshop

In the Wake of the Wallow Fire: Wildlife in Arizona's Changing Environment

Join educators from across Arizona in this unique workshop that will allow you to explore the impacts of the record-breaking fires that ravaged the state this summer. During this weekend workshop, you will tour some of the areas hit hardest by the Wallow Fire, speak with local experts who worked to save some of Arizona's vital resources, and interact with field biologists studying the impact of fires on wildlife. In addition, you will receive valuable information and resources to take back to your classroom.

When: October 7-9, 2011
Check-in begins Friday at 5:30 pm with an evening program beginning at 7:00 pm.
Wrap up will take place on Sunday around 11:00 am.

Where: Sipe White Mountain Wildlife Area, located near Springerville and Eagar in eastern Arizona

Cost: $45.00 per participant.
Costs include:

- Meals and snacks from Saturday breakfast through Sunday breakfast.
- A variety of books and resources.
- Tent camping on-site (participants can stay at an area hotel but are responsible for all associated costs and logistics).

Make checks payable to: Arizona Council for the Social Studies

Special Guest
Jim Paxon

During the 2002 Rodeo-Chediski fire, Jim was the voice of the firefighters battling this devastating wildfire. Jim is an engaging speaker who will share some of his stories and knowledge of wildfires. Participants will receive an autographed copy of his book about Rodeo-Chediski, The Monster Reared His Ugly Head.
