

Open roads, trails, and recreation sites within the Wallow Fire perimeter

ROADS

The White-Arrow System

Forest managers are dedicated to providing public access to areas within the Wallow Fire perimeter, but public safety always comes before access. Forest managers are implementing a White Arrow Signage System within the burn area to help visitors distinguish open roads from those that are closed and still unsafe for travel.

Though crews continue to mitigate hazards, and forest managers are able to open more roads and recreation sites, dangers are still abundant throughout the burn area. Each visitor is responsible for his or her own safety, and should always Look Up, Look Down, Look Around.

- Open roads within the fire perimeter are designated with white arrow signs at the beginning of the road and throughout the remainder of the route.
- Any road signed with white arrows is considered open for travel - even if this list and the map have not been updated - unless the road is otherwise barricaded, gated, or signed as closed.
- Any road without white arrows is closed.
- With some exceptions for licensed game retrieval and fuelwood collection, all parked vehicles must be within 30 feet of the open road, and must be in an area designated as open.
